DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Lapstum et al. (2003/0169864).

With regard to claim 1 Lapstum et al. teaches a method for wireless transmission of information from a first media to a second media (figure 8), comprising the steps of: entering the information on the first media (figure 8, item 504), wherein the first media includes paper media (figure 2, item 1 section [0049]); and transferring the information from the first media to the second media (figure 2, items 101 and 10), wherein the second media includes online electronic media (figure 2, item 10, section [0052]).

With regard to claim 2 Lapstum et al. teaches the method of claim 1, wherein the information is entered and transferred via a Bluetooth-enabled pen (section [0138]).

With regard to claim 3 Lapstum et al. teaches a method for wireless transmission of information from a first media to a second media (figure 8), comprising the steps of: entering the information on the first media (figure 8, item 504); and transferring the information from the first media to the second media via an ad-hoc network (figure 2, items 101 and 10, section [0138]).

With regard to claim 4 Lapstum et al. teaches the method of claim 3, wherein the first media includes paper media and the second media includes electronic media (section [0049] and section [0052]).

With regard to claim 5 Lapstum et al. teaches the method of claim 4, wherein the second media is an online duplicate of the first media (section [0092]).

With regard to claim 6 Lapstum et al. teaches the method of claim 5, wherein the first media includes a paper book (section [0096]).

With regard to claim 7 Lapstum et al. teaches the method of claim 5, wherein the first media includes a paper magazine (section [0096]).

With regard to claim 8 Lapstum et al. teaches the method of claim 5, wherein the first media includes a paper shopping catalog (section [0096]).

With regard to claim 9 Lapstum et al. teaches the method of claim 3, wherein the ad-hoc network is Bluetooth network (figure 2, items 101 and 10, section [0138]).

With regard to claim 10 Lapstum et al. teaches the method of claim 3, wherein the transferring the information includes overlaying the information on the second media (figure 22 illustrates where you write a short message on paper whereby that information is overlay in the network and sent to a receiver ).

With regard to claim 11, 12, 13, 14, 15 Lapstum et al. teaches the method of claim 10, wherein the entering the information includes circling, underlining, highlighting, writing a note, and selecting a word on a portion of the first media (figure 22 whereby it is inherent that a user is capable of using his pen this way when writing a message).

With regard to claim 16 Lapstum et al. teaches the method of claim 15, further including the step of providing a dictionary meaning for the selected word on the second media (figure 22 whereby it is inherent that a user is capable of writing the dictionary meaning of any word he writes down).

With regard to claim 18 Lapstum et al. teaches the method of claim 17, wherein the form includes a tax form [section [0096]]).

With regard to claim 19 Lapstum et al. teaches the method of claim 17, wherein the form includes a purchase order (section [0096]) .

With regard to claim 20 Lapstum et al. teaches the method of claim 4, wherein the electronic media includes Internet-based media (section [0101]).

With regard to claims 21 Lapstum et al. teaches an apparatus for online transmission of information from a first media to a second media (figure 8), including: a marking device configured to enter the information on the first media (figure 8, item 101); and a transmitter configured to transmit the information entered on the first media to the second media, the transmitter being connected to the marking device (figure 2, item 9).

With regard to claims 22-28 Lapstum et al. was shown above in claims 1-20 to cover all these limitations.
